Building for Generations 2.0

Reformed people are not only concerned for the education of the present generation, but also for the education of the generations to come. God established His covenant with us, but also with our children and someday their children, too. We are committed to teaching the generations from a Reformed perspective. We have been doing this for four generations and we pray, by God's grace, that we will continue to instruct our children and children's children from a worldview that flows out of the infallible, inspired and inerrant Word of God.

As Adams Christian looks to expand its facility, we do so with the absolute resolve to remain faithful to the Reformed principles that govern this institution... principles that are beautifully encapsulated in the Three Forms of Unity: the Heidelberg Catechism, the Belgic Confession and the Canons of Dordt.

Although a building is only a lifeless shell, it houses the life of the institution. We desire to build a facility that will not hinder this life, but will allow it to continue its vibrant growth and development. This will serve the present generation... and our continued generations to come, D.V.
